

Exhibitions

Get a Sneak Peek Inside the 56th Venice Biennale on Instagram

Check out Joan Jonas, Danh Vo, and Sarah Lucas.

Cait Munro (<https://news.artnet.com/about/cait-munro-21>), May 4, 2015

While the 56th Venice Biennale doesn't officially open until May 9, true insiders are rarely expected to wait until the public opening to see (and share!) an important exhibition (see Everything You Need To Know About the Venice Biennale 2015 \(https://news.artnet.com/art-world/everthing-need-know-venice-biennale-2015-292100\)). Thanks to Instagram, the rest of us can follow along from home as the first Biennale-goers witness world-renowned artists putting the final touches on their pavilions. Of course, in addition to the Biennale itself, there are countless collateral gallery shows and installations throughout the city. Check out some of the most buzzed-about works by Sarah Lucas (<http://www.artnet.com/artists/sarah-lucas/>), Joan Jonas (her installation at the US pavilion is pictured above), Danh Vo, and more.

"This is going to be one of my new favourite spots in town, exhibition officially opens 9 May" – @lifeinvenice \(https://instagram.com/lifeinvenice/\)

Ursula von Rydingsvard \(http://www.ursulavonrydingsvard.net/events/\), at Giardino della Marinaressa.