

30 awesome things to do in Philadelphia this weekend

By Josh Middleton

Posted: Thursday April 26 2018, 9:31am

Photograph: HughE Dillon

This is by far the busiest weekend of the year so far, so good luck trying to pick and choose all the things you're going to do. If you're looking for biggies, look no further than the festivals, including the Science Carnival on the Parkway (<https://www.timeout.com/philadelphia/things-to-do/science-carnival-on-the-parkway>), Fairmount Avenue Arts Crawl (<https://www.timeout.com/philadelphia/things-to-do/fairmount-avenue-arts-crawl>), Flavors of the Avenue (<https://www.timeout.com/philadelphia/things-to-do/flavors-of-the-avenue>) and the Philadelphia Beard Festival

"Ursula von Rydingsvard: The Contour of Feeling" (<https://www.timeout.com/philadelphia/art/ursula-von-rydingsvard-the-contour-of-feeling>) at the Fabric Workshop and Museum (https://www.timeout.com/philadelphia/museums/fabric-workshop-and-museum?locale=en_US); 11am; free
Sculptor Ursula von Rydingsvard usually makes her monumental abstract sculptures out of wood, with occasional exceptions, such as her remarkable 12,000-pound bronze works. In her second collaboration with the Fabric Workshop and Museum, the artist will exhibit large-scale works such as Ocean Floor, a 36-by-156-by-132-inch piece made of cedar, graphite, and intestines. —Karen Chernick