

Events and Parties

Editors' Picks: 13 Virtual Art Events Not to Miss This Week, From the Debut of Ibrahim Mahama's Latest Project to Studio Visits With NADA

Still stuck inside? The art world has plenty to keep you busy online this week.

Artnet News, May 25, 2020

Sunday, May 31

Ursula von Rydingsvard standing in front of Dumna in her studio in Bushwick, 2015. Courtesy of Daniel Traub, Icarus Films, and Film Forum.

13. "Live Virtual Q&A With Ursula von Rydingsvard and Filmmaker Daniel Traub" at Film Forum, New York

National Gallery of Art curator Molly Donovan will moderate a conversation between acclaimed sculptor Ursula von Rydingsvard and Daniel Traub, the director of Ursula von Rydingsvard: Into Her Own. Premiering on Friday, May 29 (after which point it can be streamed through Film Forum), the documentary chronicles the artist's unlikely, arduous journey from her early childhood in a German camp for displaced persons, to her current status as one of the most celebrated and fearless sculptors in contemporary art. Reinforcing this designation is the film's artistic centerpiece: the creation and installation of Uroda (2015), a monumental work of hand-pounded copper plates commissioned by Princeton University, which von Rydingsvard described as the most complex and challenging work of her career.

Price: Free Q&A; film can be streamed for $9.99 (with half of rental cost benefiting Film Forum)

Time: 5 p.m.

—Tim Schneider